

Table with multiple columns containing company names, codes, and financial data. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each starting with a header like '(上接C57版)'. Each row represents a company's financial information, including various metrics and codes.