

Table with multiple columns containing financial data, company names, and dates. The table is organized into several sections, likely representing different categories of financial disclosures or company listings. Each row contains detailed information including company names, financial figures, and dates.